Introduction

R Hamilton & Co Ltd's Privacy Policy sets out the ways the Company processes personal data. This Privacy Policy only relates to personal data collected by the Company via the Hamilton-Litestat.com website, emails and telephone calls. Any personal data collected will be used in accordance with UK data protection legislation.

This Privacy Policy does not apply to personal data provided to the Company by any other means or via any other website. Users should be aware that if they access other websites, using the links provided, these are outside our control. If they provide personal data to other companies, the privacy policies of those companies determine the uses to which that information is put, and R Hamilton & Co Ltd's Privacy Policy will no longer apply.

The Data Protection Act 1998

The purpose of this Privacy Policy is to inform you that information we collect and what it is used for. In order to protect personal data in a correct manner we comply with the principles of the Data Protection Act 1998, as well as the principles for good practice that are followed throughout the world.

The information we collect

As a visitor to the Company website you are asked to provide us with personal information on various occasions. This could be, for example, to request information from the Company, to take part in competitions, to become a member in a customer club, to build your own website or to order product samples.

The type of information we collect for these purposes is typically your name, company address, telephone number and e-mail address, and sometimes even your personal identification number.

How is information used?

The information we collect is used for the following purposes:

- to be able to offer safe and simple use of our website
- to be able to communicate with you in connection with competitions, membership and other interactive offers
- to be able to provide you with information about the Agency and our services
- to be able to offer you marketing and advertisements which we think you will find interesting
